

Charity Speech

Imagine that you and your classmates have been set the challenge of raising money for charity through a sponsored event. Read the orangutan fact sheet and use it to write a persuasive speech for your classmates. The speech should explain why this cause is so important.

Write your speech on lined paper using persuasive language.

Don't forget to...

- introduce what you are talking about and why;
- explain why orangutans need to be protected;
- give your own opinion.

Orangutans

Orangutan Facts

- Orangutans are critically endangered in Borneo and Sumatra.
- In Borneo, the population has decreased by 60% in the last 60 years.
- In Sumatra, the population has decreased by 80% in 75 years.
- There are currently only an estimated 60 000 wild orangutans in the world.

In recent times, orangutans have faced a number of challenges, bringing them to the brink of extinction. They are vulnerable to forest fires, and they have been affected by logging as well as road building. Road building has split the areas of forest where the orangutans live, and local businesses have also played a part in destroying their habitat. In addition, these animals are victims of the hunting trade. Hunting orangutans is popular because their bones are sold as souvenirs and used in medicines in Indonesia, and their babies are desirable pets in some parts of the world. All this makes protecting the orangutan very difficult.

Charity Speech

Introduce what you are talking about and why.

Hello classmates. I would like to talk to you about...

Explain why orangutans need to be protected.

Orangutans need to be protected because...

Give your own opinion.

I think that...

Charity Speech

Imagine that you and your classmates have been set the challenge of raising money for charity through a sponsored event. Read the orangutan fact sheet and use it to write a persuasive speech for your classmates. The speech should explain why this cause is so important.

Write your speech on lined paper using persuasive language.

Don't forget to...

- introduce what you are talking about and why;
- make a point, give evidence then explain the evidence;
- make another point, give evidence, then explain this evidence;
- give your personal opinion and make a last appeal to your classmates.

Orangutans

Orangutan Facts

- Orangutans are critically endangered in Borneo and Sumatra.
- In Borneo, the population has decreased by 60% in the last 60 years.
- In Sumatra, the population has decreased by 80% in 75 years.
- There are currently only an estimated 61,234 wild orangutans in the world.

In recent times, orangutans have faced a number of challenges, bringing them to the brink of extinction. They are vulnerable to forest fires, and they have been affected by logging as well as road building. Road building has split the areas of forest where the orangutans live, and local businesses have also played a part in destroying their habitat. In addition, these animals are victims of the hunting trade. Hunting orangutans is popular because their bones are sold as souvenirs and used in medicines in Indonesia, and their babies are desirable pets in some parts of the world. All this makes protecting the orangutan very difficult.

[illegible]

Charity Speech

Imagine that you and your classmates have been set the challenge of raising money for charity through a sponsored event. Read the orangutan fact sheet and use it to write a persuasive speech for your classmates. The speech should explain why this cause is so important.

Write your speech on lined paper using persuasive language.

Don't forget to...

- introduce what you are talking about and why;
- make a point, give evidence then explain the evidence;
- make another point, give evidence, then explain this evidence;
- make another point, give evidence, then explain this evidence also;
- give your personal opinion and make a last appeal to your classmates.

Orangutans

Orangutan Facts

- Orangutans are critically endangered in Borneo and Sumatra.
- In Borneo, the population has decreased by 60% in the last 60 years.
- In Sumatra, the population has decreased by 80% in 75 years.
- There are currently only an estimated 61,234 wild orangutans in the world.

In recent times, orangutans have faced a number of severe challenges, bringing them to the brink of extinction. They are vulnerable to forest fires, and they have been affected by logging as well as road building. Road building has split the areas of forest where the orangutans live, and to make way for palm oil plantations, local businesses have also played a part in destroying their habitat. In addition, these animals are also victims of the hunting trade. Hunting orangutans is popular because their bones are sold as souvenirs in Indonesia, and they can be used in traditional medicines. Also, orangutans are considered to be attractive creatures making their babies desirable pets in some parts of the world. All this makes protecting the orangutan very difficult.

[illegible]